Cadets Hear Captain Dixon

By Philip Malocsay

"People in the United States don't realize what it's like in Viet Nam and the Congo," Capt. R. T. Dixon, Jr. told the AFROTC cadets at Northeastern Okla. A&M recently. "There's still a lot of cruelty, and the civilians are caught in the middle."

Capt. Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben T. Dixon of Miami and a graduate of NEO A&M, spent a year in South Viet Nam and took part in the recent Congo rescue mission. While stationed in Saigon and then in Danang, South Viet Nam, Dixon flew a C-123 troop transport, dropping troops and supplies over strategic hamlets.

"The war in Viet Nam gets pretty crude sometimes," Dixon told the cadets. "Lack of refrigeration forced us to drop live meat into the jungle areas. We dropped ducks, chickens, pigs, even cows. Sometimes the crew would spend half the flight trying to corner a pig that got loose in the back of the airplane."

Later stationed in Leopoldville, Dixon piloted a C-130E in missions over Paulis and Stanleyville, dropping Belgian paratroopers and assisting in the rescue of an estimated 1,700 white hostages held in Stanleyville.

"I'll never forget the look on their faces," said Dixon. "Most of them only had a suitcase with them. Things they'd worked all their lives for they were leaving behind, and they were happy."

Capt. Dixon rose to the rank of Cadet Colonel in the NEO AF ROTC program.

Night school graduates are Tommie Leroy Huston, Picher, and Rudy Ray Farrel, Trece, Kan.

Second Semester Enrolment Monday

Enrolment for second semester classes will begin Monday morning and continue through Wednesday. The order of enrolment is conducted by a numbering system instead of the alphabetical order used last year.

Evening Enrolment Set Wednesday

Enrolment for the NEO evening school program will be held at 7 p.m. Jan. 27 in the student union ballroom, according to Bill Russell, head of the night program.

Courses offered for the first time this year include Social Psychology 223, Art 114, Photography 113, insurance and real estate.

R. C. Nichols, Miami insurance man, will join the evening school faculty to teach the non-credit real estate and insurance courses. Nichols is former superintendent of the Miami public school system.

Courses which were not offered during the first semester are Plane Geometry 005, Sociology 223, Solid Geometry 153N, Business Communications 223, Accounting 123N, Transistor Circuits 143N, Machine Shop 112N-123N, Business Statistics 213N, Humanities 223N, Spanish 113N, French 123N and Speech 113.

Numbers were issued Tuesday on a first-come first-served basis to both freshmen and sophomores. Sophomore enrolment is scheduled Monday morning; freshmen will begin enrolling Monday afternoon, continuing through Tuesday and Wednesday.

ENROLMENT PROCEDURES
The number slips give the date and time to report to advisers.

After enrolment advisement students will report to the student union ballroom for class sectioning. Single section classes should be listed first on the trial schedule, with section number, time and instructor entered only for those single sections.

Students who have not registered their cars should do so at the time of enrolment.

After sectioning, books and supplies may be purchased in the college bookstore.

For new students or students whose cards have expired, the next step will be to report to room 105, administration building for identification pictures.

The final step in enrolment is the payment of fees in the business office.

Classes will begin at 8 a.m. Thursday.

Fashion Showing On NEO Campus

By Janice Clay

A "Preview of Fashions" was held Jan. 17 in the campus little theater, presenting over 25 girls from the home economics department. They modeled garments made during first semester clothing construction and flat-pattern design classes.

Judy Lewis, a Wyandotte freshman, narrated the program. Background music was provided by pianist Clark Matthews. Special entertainment was given by NEO freshman Steve Heid, playing the guitar, and Rodger Smith and Janie Sandmire, dancers from Miami. Smith is an NEO freshman, Miss Sandmire a senior at Miami high school. Stage settings were designed and executed by Jo Goodale.

PREVIEW OF FASHIONS . . . The Home Economics department of NEO held its first fashion show of the year Sunday in the little theatre. Sponsored by Ruby Mackey, students in clothing construction class modeled garments made during the first semester of school. Modeling attire they have made are, from left Connie Lock, Garber; Linda Nicks, Grove and Arieta Gustin, Commerce.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,

Christmas is a time of joy and beauty; however, the beauty created on this campus, in the form of Christmas decorations, was badly treated in the days before the Christmas holidays.

The work on which the art department spent so much time was slowly ruined by careless and thoughtless students. People damaged or walked out with part of the decorations on the stairs of the administration building.

Have NEO students no pride in their campus and reputation? A group of people gave freely of their time to help create the Christmas spirit on campus, and just a few stupid individuals thought it funny to destroy this work.

Lindsey Bellam, on behalf of the art department, NEO.

NOTICE

Key Punch 112 in IBM will be offered the second semester, announced A. L. Taylor, head of the department.

Anyone interested may take the course. It will consist of one hour of theory and two hours of lab per week.

This course is not listed on the regular college schedule.

Because of limitations of available machines, interested students are requested to contact the IBM department so schedules may be worked out ahead of time.

Religious Clubs

WESLEY FOUNDATION

Dail West, Miami businessman, will speak at the Wesley Foundation Center Jan. 24 at 5:30 p.m. His discussion, "Christianity and Business," will follow a snack supper.

The Jan. 31 program will feature Dr. Howard Bush, speaking on "Christian Vocations."

Anyone wishing to attend the sessions should contact Bob Tuttle at Dyer Hall or register at the Wesley Foundation Center, 231 I N.E.

The Rev. Erven Bowery, associate minister of the Miami First Methodist church, is sponsor of the Wesley group.

CANTERBURY ASSOCIATION

A delicious home-cooked meal and an hour of stimulating conversation are the features of every meeting of the Canterbury association, a club for NEO college students.

Open to all interested students, meetings are held each Monday evening from 5:30 until 6:30 in the parish hall of the Episcopal church, 225 B N.W.

Following an informal supper, the group discusses topics of interest to college students. The Rev. Philip S. Crow, rector of the church, and Mrs. Elizabeth Paine, college librarian, are sponsors of the association. There are about 25 members.

President of Canterbury club is Tom Heydt, NEO night student. Rory Cruz, freshman, is vice-president, and Paula Phillips, also a freshman, is secretary-treasurer.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

A surprise award service for the members of the BSU executive council was held at the noonday service Jan. 7.

This new award, in the form of a certificate, was a joint project of BSU president Orville Pierce, a sophomore from Miami, and Jo Goodale, a Tulsa freshman.

BSU director M. R. Dearing presented the awards to the following ten members: Kinny Pack, Marie Pees, Orville Pierce and John Williams, Miami; Linda Burnside, Bluejacket; Ouida Furnas and Linda Shaw, Commerce; Dale Proctor, Grove; JoAnn Tallman, Welch; and Kendall Harrell, Chelsea.

Straight Hair In; Boots, Hose Out Say Students At NEO

By Liz Russell

Straight hair is in, dark lace hose and knee boots are out—or at least that is the way 85 percent of the male students on campus would have it.

Of 100 male students polled on campus, their opinions and "yes" or "no" answers were typically male. The general trend of thought was for the girls to appear natural and feminine.

Straight hair was voted IN! Ninety-six percent of the boys preferred a simple, soft hair style that required no "rattling" or "teasing"—except for special dress-up occasions. Facial structure and individual appearance were the deciding factors. Seventy-two percent considered the hose too far-out and unnatural. The other 28 percent were in favor of the new idea, commenting on their stylish attractiveness. However, all agreed that because the dark hose out-lined the leg, "some girls could wear them better than others."

Knee boots, so the survey indicated, are for the birds—except when it snows or rains! One opinion voiced was that boots were fine if the girl was studying agriculture. Eighty-seven percent of the boys regarded knee boots to be too man-ish and unfeminine to wear with anything but slacks (although fashion magazines feature boots with several varieties of clothing.)

NEW EQUIPMENT FOR NEO . . . The Biological and Earth Science division has received a new metal cabinet from the American Institute for Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers to be used for the display and storage of rocks and minerals studied in geology. Ed Hare, left, chairman of the AIME Education committee, made the presentation to Myra Lamb, geology instructor, and Waymon C. Gibson, head of the department. Members of the committee also present for the presentation are, left to right, Hare, Miami; Earl Vaught, Baxter Springs, Kan.; Ernest Moran, Miami; Andrew Bailey, Miami, chairman of the Tri-state section of AIME; Mrs. Lamb and Gibson. Not pictured is committee member Bill Newby.

New Policy Is Outlined By NEO Library

Due to a rash of mutilation of library materials during the first semester, the college administration has set a policy concerning fines for this offense. Anyone found guilty of defacing library materials will be subject to a fine of $20.00. These materials belong to the State of Oklahoma and are intended to be used by students for many years to come, not to provide for the selfish interest of a few students. Many of them cannot be replaced for any amount of money.

The college has purchased a copy machine for the express purpose of providing book and magazine materials for those students, or others, who cannot find time to use them in the library. Copies are available at 10 cents a sheet or 25 cents for three sheets. Orders left in the library one day may be picked up the next day and must be paid for when the order is placed.

The library will be a beehive of activity for the entire second semester as freshmen—all 700—write term papers. We ask your cooperation in using library facilities and in getting books back in on time so they will be available for others. Most books will be checked out for one week only, with no renewal privileges if there is a waiting list. A student who can't find a needed book on the shelves may leave word at the counter to place his name on a waiting list for the book.

Rainwater Elected Engineers Prexy

James Rainwater, an engineering major from Tulsa, was elected recently to head the Engineers club for the coming semester.

Other officers elected are Youness Ahmadian, Tehran, Iran, vice-president; Janice Rudolph, Miami, secretary; Lynn Freeman, Vinita, treasurer; Jack Emrick, Westerville, Ohio, student senate representative; and Robert Blizzard, Miami, alternate representative.

Bob Foote and Earl Clark are sponsors of the organization, which is open to all mathematics and engineering majors.

Where Is The Real You?

A DEVOTIONAL By Larry Potter

This world is lost in an attitude of carelessness in putting fun before other essential duties. We need to take heed, for we will not always be. "And it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment." (Hebrews 9:27) We need to look to Christ, the perfect one, who was, and is, and evermore shall be.

At the end, that car we were so proud of will be in some salvage yard, the home we own will deteriorate with time; youth we once had and proudly displayed will have rotted and mixed with the earth.

The ones we have won to Christ and the deeds we have done for Him will be the only things left to show when we meet our Master. Things done for Christ are ours forever.

Many people in this world have lost their true identity. They become one of the crowd in which "Everybody is doing it." The call of this world is twisted in their real meanings. With so much false advertisement of this world, such as, "Will you try this because it is only natural and popular, or you will get more pleasure by doing or having this," where is the real you to be found? God created each of us to be different and to have individual character. Once stated and proven to be true, "A man that stands for nothing, will fall for anything."

Machines have taken the places of men in many ways, and even during the war their worth was placed higher than man himself. But can a machine give and receive love? A closer relationship with God can help man see himself as an individualist, which God intended him to be. "Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you." (James 4:8)

Cagers Win Robertson Is Head Of Iola Contest Nation's Juco Coaches

The roundballers of NEO played 40 minutes of heads-up basketball Jan. 7 to defeat the Red Devils of Iola, Kan. 67-60. The win gave the Norsemen a 7-7 record for the season.

NEO jumped into an early lead and held it until the Kansas team went ahead 16-15 with 6:10 left in the first half. In the time left the lead changed several times. When the half-time horn sounded it was a 28-28 deadlock.

Five minutes into the second half the Norsemen went ahead and never trailed again.

When the smoke cleared from one pile up, Jim Lewis, the Red Devil center, was out of the game. He scored 13 points before the argument.

Ed Michaels was high point man of the game, scoring 18 points for the visitors. Top scorer for NEO was Randy Brooks with 16 points.

Iola edged the Norsemen shooting from the field, but the Norse-

S. A. (Red) Robertson, Northeastern Okla. A&M football coach since 1945, is president of the newly organized National Junior College Football Coaches Association.

The association was formed recently in Chicago when coaches of the nation gathered for the annual NCAA meeting and other athletic activities.

Other officers of the juco football coaches are Charles Ross, Wilson college, Chicago, vice-president, and James Strangland, of Long Beach college, Calif., secretary-treasurer.

Two coaches who played under Robertson at NEO were among lecturers at the NCAA convention.

men sank 23 out of 31 from the free throw line.

Top defender of the game was Tiny Hamilton, who tied down Lewis during most of the game.

The next home game for the Norsemen will be Monday with the Cadets from OMA.

Norse Drop Two In Missouri Games

During the Christmas holidays the Norseman basketball team traveled to St. Louis for two games, one with St. Louis Baptist and one with Washington University junior varsity. NEO dropped both games 85-90.

Washington U. rallied in the last few seconds to defeat the Norsemen. With 45 seconds left in the game NEO led by one point. After the Norse failed to capitalize on two 1 and 1 shots, the Bears dropped two field goals and two free throws to win 85-90. NEO out-shot the Bears from the field 33-25, but the difference was at the free throw line. The Bears sank 35 from the charity stripe, and NEO dropped 14. NEO had 28 fouls against them.

Bill Clingan was high scorer for the Norsemen with 26 points. Others were John Boyd, 15, Randy Brooks, 10, and Aaron Thompson with 10.

ST. LOUIS BAPTIST

The next day NEO fell to St. Louis Baptist university. Again the difference was at the free throw line.

With 4:48 left in the game the Trojans pulled from a 70-70 tie to win 85-90.

Top scorer for NEO was Aaron Thompson with 20 points. Bill Clingan had 19, Randy Brooks, 8 and Jhn Boyd, 8.

OWEN RETURNS TO NEO

Bruce Owen has returned to NEO to begin the second semester as head of the speech and theater department. Owen has had a year and a half leave of absence while he worked on his doctorate degree at the University of Kansas in Lawrence.

SHIRLEY TRAPS TIGER - Shirley Reynolds became the bride of John Tiger in a ceremony solemnized Dec. 26 in the First Baptist church, Miami. Dr. Weldon E. Marcum, minister of the First Baptist church and an NEO instructor, officiated. Mrs. Tiger is a fifth grade teacher at Rockdale elementary school. Her husband is a first year member of the NEO faculty, serving as American history teacher and assistant football coach.

Is Shelf-Sleeping Latest Fad?

By Bill Martin

"Where is my money, Patterson!" cried John Deuser, weary, but happy as he crawled out of a small shelf in which he had spent the night.

John had just finished spending eight hours in a 13" x 38" x 24" space shelf which is located just above Glenn Smith and Steve Turnbo's clothes closet, next to the ceiling in Dyer Hall.

John's experience has also proved profitable since Jerry Patterson and Ronnie Nayla gave him three dollars to do it.

He climbed into his converted bed at 11 p.m. Tuesday and remained there until 7 a.m. Wednesday.

A six foot sophomore, John is majoring in IBM Data Processing.

Rumors have been heard that a new fad may begin with boys competing to see who can stay in the small shelves the longest.
