Froman Directs Next Production

The cast has been selected and production is underway for NEO drama departments "All the Way Home" to be presented Feb. 12, 13, 14 and 16, according to David Froman, director.

Froman stated that evening performances will be presented at 8 o'clock each night and a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. in the Fine Arts auditorium. Students will be admitted free.

"All the Way Home" is based on the Pulitzer Prize novel "A Death in the Family" by James Agee. In 1941 it was chosen as the Pulitzer Prize play and received the New York Critics Award.

The play builds around a husband, his expectant wife and his young son and the tragedy that strikes when the husband suddenly dies while going to visit his dying father. His wife, crushed with despair, faces yet another problem. Their son is not quite old enough to realize the enormity of the family tragedy, but is old enough to be growing away from his mother and in need of a father. This all combines to make a striking drama about death and the emotions involved.

The cast for the play will be Jay Follet, Dan Kruthof, Miami; Mary Follet, Lynn Jackson, Stroud; Ralph Follet, Galen Baldwin, Tulsa; Sally Follet, Becky Riggs, Oklahoma City; Jessie Follet, Glenda Smith, Tulsa; Aunt Sadie, Kayla Pursley, Miami; Great Grandmother, Jackie Doss, Tulsa; Aunt Hanna Lynch, Kathy Pryor, Miami; Andrew Lynch, Ronnie White, Miami; Joel Lynch, Mike Astin, Tulsa;

Father Jackson, Max Lee, Commerce; Six young boys from Miami will also have parts in the play. They are David Martin, as Rufus, and other boys will be played by Jim Lollar, Gary Sills, Gary Landers, Dick Parcel and Dean Kruthof.

Jerold Graham and the advanced stagecraft class will be in charge of scenic design; Carl St. Clair, technical work and David Froman, lighting and directing.

OU Glee Club And Orchestra Program Slated

The University of Oklahoma's Men's Glee Club and Symphony Orchestra will perform on the NEO campus during the first week of March.

On March 3, the 40 voices of the Men's Glee Club will present a program at 8 p.m. in the new Fine-Arts auditorium. Students will be admitted free.

March 6 is the date set for the visit of the OU Symphony Orchestra. The 80 piece orchestra will perform at 8 p.m. in the Fine-Arts auditorium. This program will also be free to NEO students.

While staying in Miami both groups will be housed by members of the NEO faculty.

Eastern Trip Planned For Spring Break

A trip to Washington D.C. and New York City for spring break has been confirmed by Dr. Bruce G. Carter, NEO president.

Any NEO student may go at the cost of $77.50 for transportation and lodging. Adults will be charged $120 for the same. Individuals will be expected to bring extra money for food, personal entertainment and souvenirs.

The bus trip will begin Friday, March 21, with the first night being spent in Columbus, Ohio. Three days will be spent in both Washington D.C. and New York City before returning home.

While in Washington the group will visit various national monuments and the Smithsonian Institute. Audiences with Senator Henry Bellmon and other Oklahoma representatives and senators are also planned.

Time in New York City will be spent touring such places as Radio City Music Hall, NBC studios and art museums. Visits to a Broadway show and a ferryboat ride around Manhattan Island are also on the schedule.

Any student wishing to take part in the trip should contact Dr. Carter as soon as possible to enable the school to make reservations for any activities in which you want to take part.

'Up With People' Performance Set

From Carnegie Hall to the Hollywood Bowl, from Manhattan's lower Eastside to Watts, from Tokyo's Kabuki Theatre to the Florence world in concert halls, in college campuses and in city streets. Up With People has astounded audiences all over the world.

The three musical casts in Oklahoma this month have had about as varied an experience as you could find anywhere. One of them 200 strong—will be in Miami Feb. 2 and 3 for concerts in the Northeastern A&M theater, sponsored by the Miami Lions Club.

In the middle of last winter one cast was operating throughout Norway and Finland performing 300 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

Meanwhile the other two casts were covering Italy, living in Italian homes, meeting the university students, and storming the streets with a new kind of positive demonstration.

In the last months these casts have covered scores of universities, colleges and cities across the United States. During the summer they opened both Republican and Democratic conventions.

In July one cast was invited by President Joseph Mobutu to tour the Congo as his government's guests. The young people were the feature presentation at the eighth anniversary Independence Day celebrations.

Another cast has just concluded a tour of Canada, beginning in Quebec and going across the Prairies. Hundreds of young Canadians are now actively involved in the movement.

Speaking of the purposes behind the "Up With People" program, J. Blanton Belk, chairman of the board and executive director, says, "The aim of 'Up with People' is to pour into the life of nations in the next 10 to 20 years people with the self discipline to preserve freedom, the creativeness to answer the immense needs of humanity, the inner direction to choose the right course from a myriad of possibilities, the wisdom to know good from evil, the maturity to live for the future and not the moment."

The first Miami performance will be Sunday at 2 p.m., Monday's performance will be at 8 p.m. Tickets will cost $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Today is the last day to file for student senate offices in Dean Angle's office in the Library-Administration building.

Student senate elections will be held all day Feb. 5 in the Carter Student Union. Every one is urged to vote.

Thirty-two Listed To '69 Edition Of Who's Who

Thirty-two Northeastern A&M sophomores have been named to the 1969 edition of "Who's Who" among Students in American colleges and universities.

The students who were selected by the college faculty and administration will be featured in the college yearbook "The Viking" and the "Who's Who" magazine published at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Selection for "Who's Who" is based on students' scholastic achievements and leadership in campus activities.

Also, Joe Neil, Welch; Linda Johnson, Bluejacket; Randy Rosiere and Harlan Stoner, Wyandotte; Bonnie Milner, Fairland; Patrick Griswold, Mary Kautzman and Ken Reynolds, Tulsa; Dewey Enlow, Sapulpa; Kathleen Rae Supernaw Hurst, Sand Springs; Ted Blevins, Collinsville; James Weidman, Coweta; Lois Christenson, Pierre, S.D.; Marty Reed, LaCygne, Kans.; Howard Brown, Centerville, Kans.; Gerald Eggerman, Lockwood, Mo.; and Ebrahim Fatemzadeh, Tehran.

Judging Team Defends Title

Northeastern A&M's Livestock judging team will be defending their championship title and seeking their second victory of the year when they compete in the Southwestern Livestock Exposition at Fort Worth, Tex. tomorrow.

Earlier this year the Aggies won the National Western Stock Show in Denver, Colo.

Last year the prize winning judges defeated 18 college teams from six states to win the Fort Worth contest.

Neil Burcham, instructor of agriculture, is coach of the team.

Enrollment Hassle Needs Alteration

Life is a simple thing to live, however, somewhere along the line the machinery of day to day living has complicated the most simple actions into an impossibility. A very good example of this was demonstrated on our campus as spring enrollment began.

When it takes a person from three or four hours to complete the forms, schedules and cards concerned with enrolling, it is time for a new updated procedure to be initiated into a school that is becoming too modern to put up with a system that might have worked 10 years ago when enrollment was on a smaller scale. NEO is fast becoming one of the foremost junior colleges across the nation. With this in mind the college should look into a new method of handling one of the big headaches on the campus.

Everywhere one looked on enrollment day there were lines, lines to get enrollment packets, lines for sectioning and after standing in these lines the better part of the day, perhaps the most irritating line was that leading to the business office to pay fees. After all the rushing, pushing and miseries I had encountered that day, for some reason I felt no immediate urge to stand in line to rid myself of a few dollars.

Not all the blame for this mid-year hassle can be placed on the procedure used. An enrollment schedule was run in the Jan. 10 issue of the Norse Wind, stating quite clearly on what day and at what time each person should enroll. The time designated for sophomores A-F to get their packets was from 8 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Numerous H's, L's and S's made appearances in the registrars office demanding their packets, which sent the entire schedule in a frenzy. It was also noticed that during sophomore enrollment many freshmen were spotted crowding the lines in order to finish early.

Next enrollment period a stricter schedule should be enforced for the students sake, such as refusing to hand out packets to anyone whose name doesn't begin with the initials being accepted at that time. Presentation of student ID's might be one way of doing this.

On the same token, persons who were working or had a legitimate excuse to finish enrollment as quickly as possible, rushed to the head of the lines asking for special attention. Again the mechanics of the office were upset. Perhaps a solution to this would be a special day set aside for people in this situation.

Sectioning presented its share of problems. Many students found they had been given the wrong section cards while others found that available classes had run out of cards and the students were forced to wait while more were run off.

The complications evolving around enrollment are both the fault of the student and the out dated methods. A feasible solution should be found before students go through one enrollment to many and become discouraged with school and our campus. NEO should adapt a procedure that keeps in step with the changing tide of the campus.

Reminder Needed In Flag Etiquette

What is proper flag etiquette at an athletic event? If this question were asked to NEO students and faculty members probably many of them would not know the proper answer. If they do know the answer to the question, their actions do not show this at home basketball games.

At each home game, one may observe people just standing there or talking to friends during the flag ceremony. This writer hopes the reason these things are done is because people do not know the proper flag etiquette and not out of disrespect for our country and our flag.

Proper flag etiquette, which can be found in any recognized encyclopedia, dictates that one should stand respectfully with his right hand over his heart. A gentleman wearing a hat should remove it and hold it over his heart. Persons in uniform should use a military salute.

By practicing good flag etiquette one shows that he cares and respects the flag and the country for which it stands. Anyone who cares anything at all about freedom and democracy, should definitely become familiar with flag etiquette and practice it.

Northeastern's REW Features Doug Manning

Northeastern A&M will hold its annual Religious Emphasis Week Feb. 17, 18, and 19, according to Ted Blevins, student senate president.

Featured speaker for the event will be Doug Manning, pastor of Southern Hills Baptist Church in Tulsa, Ok. Rev. Manning, a one-time state collegiate oratory champion, has spoken for many civic events, state conventions and retreats. He participated in Billy Graham's follow up meeting in the Philippine Islands in 1963 and the Hawaii revival in 1966.

The theme for this year's Religious Emphasis Week is taken from the popular song "Who Will Answer," by Ed Ames.

Along with the assemblies, Rev. Manning will speak at 12:30 each afternoon at the Baptist Student Union and will be available for student discussions between 2-4 p.m. in the Student Union.

Also, he will have early evening discussions with all students who care to participate and there will be a dorm question and answer session on all three evenings during which time area ministers and lay people of all denominations will participate.

Resale Of Books Incite Aggravation

Have you ever paid $10 for a book and received $3 back for it? Aggravating isn't it? The feeling of aggravation seemed to cloud the campus as students crowded the bookstore at midterm to GIVE their books away.

As disgusted student after disgusted student complainingly emerged from the bookstore after selling $40 worth of books for $17, I heard the bookstore commonly referred to as the "black market."

Many students joked about the false advertising placed on the bookstore calendars, "We buy your used books at top prices."

Many students are unaware that the bookstore does not do the buying-back of student books. The bookstore contacts a purchaser to come and buy the books back from the students. "The policy of the bookstore is to give the students back half of the new book price for their books, providing the books are in good condition," stated Mrs. Jack Rucker, manager of the bookstore. "Thus, if a book bought new or used at the price of $11, the student should get between $5.50 back for it."

However the buyer at present does not always give the students what their books are worth. This results in unhappy and disgusted students who feel the bookstore is cheating them. "We don't want the students to feel that the bookstore is cheating them out of their books or their money," stated Mrs. Rucker. "We contact a buyer and he buys the books from the students and we in turn buy the books back from him. I've felt that the students were dissatisfied with the buy-back of the books and I think that perhaps if we contacted a new buyer maybe this would ease the buy-back tension, and also if the students would ask the purchaser how much they're getting for each book and count their money, maybe this would make the buyer a little more aware of the students concern."

Through the cooperation of the bookstore, the student senate, and Dr. Bruce G. Carter, college president, the motion for a new buyer has been okayed.

Ted Blevins, student senate president, announced, "We are also going to request a longer buy-back period for the students and more notification of the days students can sell their books."

Maybe now with a new buyer and students showing more concern over the buy-back we can have a more satisfactory transaction. Again I would like to acknowledge thanks to Dr. Carter, the bookstore and the student senate for their help and concern in affording a solution which may enable the buy-back of books to be a less aggravating affair.

Carol Colclasure, Editor

Students are urged to voice their opinions through letters to the editor. All letters should be signed and taken to the Norse Wind office, second floor of the Library Administration building or sent to Box 431A, Station No. 1, Miami.

Positions Open For Six Flags Summer Jobs

Six Flags Over Texas has begun to interview applicants for host and hostess positions for the 1969 season, which begins in mid-April.

Director of Personnel Wayne Gallagher said, "There are approximately 1,500 openings, which encompass a wide range of job types, such as ride operators, guest relations, personnel, landscape, maintenance, ticket takers, cashiers, gifts and souvenirs and food and beverage hosts and hostesses."

All the positions will be filled with college and high school students only. Minimum age is 18, and, if a high school student, proof of age is required.

All students interested must be interviewed in person, as no mail applications will be considered.

The Six Flags personnel office is open from 9:00 to 11:30 a.m. and then from 1:00 to 4:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday each week.

The office is located just south of the main gate to Six Flags in the employees' parking lot by the Great Southwest Bowling Lanes.

Applicants will be judged on personality, appearance and leadership qualities.

Gibson Pursues Unusual Hobbies

BY BARBARA HOOPER

In a day when stereo sound systems, mini skirts and electric heat tend to smother mother nature, it is refreshing to meet a person who can uncover the beauties of nature in everyday life. Mrs. Pauline Gibson, English and American literature instructor, is such a person.

Hobbies and collections hold much of Mrs. Gibson's interest and vary from traveling to collecting things close to nature. For the past 14 summers she and her husband, Waymon Gibson, head of the biological division at NEO, have traveled to national park areas throughout the United States. During the last 7 years they have spent their summers in Olympic National Park in Washington, where Mr. Gibson works as a ranger naturalist. While there Mrs. Gibson spends a great deal of time at the sea shore, which she names as one of her favorite spots, clamming, crabbing, salmon fishing, observing life in the tide pools and hiking to the snow fields on the mountains. Last summer she mastered the use of the ice ax on the snow fields and was able to climb high enough to see the mountain goats at close range.

These are but a few of Pauline Gibson's summer activities. She enjoys reading, traveling, bicycle riding, and camping in the wilderness, close to nature. While visiting Grand Teton National Park in Wyoming she and her husband enjoyed such sports as rock hunting and going down the Snake river in rubber rafts.

Mrs. Gibson is a very active person, however, her love for nature doesn't stop with the outdoors. She collects a variety of things associated with nature. Collecting ancient Chinese brass, in Mrs. Gibson's words, "Affords lots of opportunities for us to be 'junkers' and to visit out of the way shops."

A hobby and collection Mrs. Gibson and her husband share, is the collection of uncut rocks and shells which they make into cuff links. They now have about 75 pair.

European Jobs Now Available For Collegians

American students in increasing numbers are invading Europe each summer, not to travel as tourists, but to work.

The students—from colleges in all parts of the country—work because they want to meet people, learn a foreign language and simply get to know a country as it really is.

Bruce Johnson, a Stanford senior, worked for a computer management company in Germany last summer. "It was one of the most valuable experiences I've had," he says. "When you travel through a country you see the face put forward to tourists. When you work in an office, you get to know people. You discover what a culture is really like."

Bruce admits he had a difficult time adjusting to German work schedules the first week. "They work steadily and with less frivolity than Americans. But once you get used to the pace you can accomplish a great deal. I made a point to take sandwiches to work every day and I made some wonderful friends over lunch."

To help American students get jobs in Europe, the International Work Exchange has prepared a directory listing job opportunities in each country and telling students how to arrange jobs. The publication, which contains no advertising, is available for $3 from the Publications Division, Inter-Office Box 240, Palo Alto, Calif. 94302.

In addition to listing specific job opportunities, the book also supplies information about organizations which arrange jobs for students. One popular program, for example, provides a student with a guaranteed job, room and board and air transportation to Europe in one package deal.

Ross Allen, who edited the European job directory, says he contacted more than 100 diplomatic personnel throughout the world in preparing the book, "We have developed what we believe is the most comprehensive guide available to summer jobs in Europe."

"We have summarized on a country-by-country basis the visa and work permit requirements, the types of jobs available and who to contact to get a job. We don't guarantee our book will get anyone a job, but we believe it should be a tremendous help to anyone unfamiliar with the European job market."

Diane Wilson, a University of California coed who spent a summer as a secretary in London, says: "There is a special satisfaction in holding down a job in a foreign country that you don't get working in your own home town. You really feel independent. You know you've accomplished something. And . . . well, I don't think there is really any other way to truly understand a country."

Governor Here For Dedication In New Theatre

Governor Dewey F. Bartlett visited the Northeastern A&M campus, Friday, Feb. 24 to dedicate eight buildings.

Speaking of the importance of the role of junior colleges in the Oklahoma education program, Bartlett praised the advancement of NEO in both building and scholastic programs. The key word of student success in today's schools, he said is "worth" adding that junior colleges with their flexibility enable each individual to have in his experience an opportunity to work with confidence to reach his potential as an individual.

Bartlett praised NEO, and cited it as the state's best junior college and one of the best in the region. "The success of the school has been proved 'by industrial growth in Ottawa County, Miami and Northeastern Oklahoma,'" stated Bartlett.

Buildings dedicated were Ables Hall, in honor of Joe Ables, chairman of the technology division at NEO; Chaney Apartments, in honor of Merrill Chaney, wood-working instructor; Dobson Hall, in honor of the late Nellie Dobson; Harrill Hall, in honor of Gene Harrill, chairman of the first Board of Regents and Need Apartments, in honor of Oran Neen, chairman of the engineering, science and mathematics division. Other dedications were made for the Fine Arts Center, the Health-Physical Education building and the Library Administration building.

S. Albert "Red" Robertson, Dr. C. C. Ferree, John R. Wallace, Robert I. Hartley and Harry Sydnar gave dedication speeches.

Dr. Bruce G. Carter introduced honored guests and representatives of Indian tribes of this agency.

The governor spoke before a combined civic group assembly at a luncheon in the Carter Student Union following the dedication ceremonies.

Last year Carol and Barbara were reporters for the college paper and served as assistant editors last semester.

Upon graduation from Northeastern A&M, Carol plans to attend summer school at Northeastern State College, Tahlequah where she will work for her degree in journalism. Barbara intends to continue her education in the field of journalism at Northeastern State of Kansas City.

Sports editor for the Norse Wind is Monty Franks, a sophomore from Miami and assistant sports editor is Robert Campbell, who is also the editor of the Norse Alumni News, an official publication of the Norse Alumni association.

Serving as reporters are Ray Lea, Tulsa; Mike Oswald, Miami; Kenny Robertson, Miami; John Gentry, Bartlesville, and Elton Rush, Bartlesville.

Photographers are Robert Kemper, Miami and David Ferguson, Drumright.

Viking Institutes New Concepts

New ideas and concepts are being introduced to the NEO campus this year with the publication of the 1968-69 Viking, according to Jack Rucker, yearbook sponsor.

The theme of this year's Viking will be "50th Anniversary", in conjunction with Northeastern A&M's golden anniversary to be celebrated this year.

A mixture of the old and new will appear in the 250 page yearbook, with pictures of the campus as it appeared years ago in contrast with the campus as it looks today. More color will be added with sixteen full color pages in the book.

Vikings will be available early this year. Plans are to deliver the yearbooks within the first week of May.

PAULINE GIBSON —

and an emcee. Mrs. Gibson related that one of the most unusual pets and gifts that she had ever received came from her husband when he gave her a full grown racoon for Valentine's day. "I understand other women receive perfume and candy," she said.

Speaking of her present pets Mrs. Gibson said, "I now have one cat that lives in, one cat that lives out and five commuturs who appear diurnally at meal time."

One of the most interesting years of her life, Mrs. Gibson feels, was spent in the Philippines during World War II, where she served with the International Red Cross as program and recreation director. There she encountered another odd pet in the form of a mongoose.

Excuses and violence are the two things Pauline Gibson dislikes most. "There are reasons and rationalizations, but no excuses. If a person is completely honest with himself and his associates he does not make excuses. I detest violence also. It is an excuse. Excusing oneself is a petty form of escapism. Of course the facts controlling "escapism" are diverse and complex. For this reason I believe the present university protesters are engaged in the BIG ESCAPE. They lack an honesty, an awareness, a knowledge of man and an insight to those determining factors that lead to an honest appraisal of self. Shakespeare said it: "To thy own self be true." Emerson said it: "Know thy self." Whitman, Thoreau, Emily Dickinson and many other great writers have said it over and over. But some do not listen; they make excuses."

Mrs. Gibson went on to add that fortunately most students at NEO don't fall in this category in her opinion. She felt the students on this campus were seemingly responsible, curious and alert individuals.

After listening to Pauline Gibson talk about her career as a teacher, it is easy to see the great dedication and love she has for her job. "One of the great rewards of teaching for me has been the observance of a student finally grasping an idea, of struggling with a new concept, of being enlightened with a whole new perspective. It's called thinking. I too experience the same excitement when I make a new discovery of thought, often stimulated by the student."

Mrs. Gibson, feels teaching is a proud and noble profession.

"The greatest tragedy I could experience, aside from the loss of my immediate loved ones, would be the lack of freedom enabling me to teach. Teaching is the noblest of all professions; teaching demands the greatest responsibility; teaching affords the opportunity for the most good; teaching offers the most direct route to the enlightenment of mankind. I strongly feel that education in all its aspects is the answer to the problems that plague man."

Mrs. Gibson earned her associates of arts degree in speech and piano from William Woods, in Fulton, Mo.; a B.A. from Central State in Edmond in English and speech; a M.A. degree in English from Kansas State in Pittsburg, Kans. and has done graduate work at Tulsa University, University of Oklahoma, and the University of Washington.

Prior to the 4 years she has been at NEO, Mrs. Gibson taught speech, drama, English and American literature at high schools in Tonkawa, Sapulpa, Tulsa Will Rogers and Miami. She also served as forensic coach and creator and director of Miami Madcaps, an all school varsity revue.

Mrs. Gibson is a member of the American Association of University Professors, past president of the American Association of University Women, Phi Beta, Delta Kappa Gamma and the National Council of Teachers of English.

Mr. Waymon Gibson, her husband, has served as the head of the biological sciences department at NEO for the past 19 years and is now on sabbatical leave from the college in research at the University of Southern California. He is also attending other classes at UCLA. The Gibsons have 3 daughters, Pamela who is married, Karen a hostess with TWA is also married and Patricia, a senior at Miami High school.

What more could be said about such an interesting, active woman as Pauline Gibson, a woman with a wide field of interests and one who is dedicated to her profession. Little more than this, when one meets a person like Mrs. Gibson, who gets so much from the true meaning of nature and gives back twice as much, it causes one to stop, think and appreciate.

Calcagno Portrays A Man of Many Talents

BY CAROL COLCLASURE

They say a picture is worth more than a thousand words, thus emotions, inspirations, moods, and ideas all combine creating the artist and instructor, Nicholas Calcagno.

Calcagno received his bachelor's degree from St. Bonaventure University in New York and his master's from Seton Hall. A man of not only talent, but intellect, Calcagno holds a major in English, philosophy, and theology. He instructs English and humanities at Northeastern A&M and is working on a degree in art.

His teaching experience includes a year in Rome where he taught English and Latin. "I enjoy teaching to the fullest extent wherever I am, but what I enjoy most of all is just being there—in the classroom seeing the spontaneous reactions of the students," commented Calcagno.

When asked how he liked his first year at NEO he replied, "I think the campus is beautiful and the faculty top quality. The students seem to be more receptive to knowledge and have a friendly, respective attitude."

A man of many talents, Calcagno occupies his leisure time by painting, sculpturing, sketching, and designing. "I've been interested in art all my life; it's an inclination I was born with," stated Calcagno.

He's designed stage sets, illustrated magazines, and worked on college annuals. He exhibited art in California where he won first in abstracts, second in watercolor, and third in collage.

His wife, Carol, had this to say about her husband, "I think Nick has a wonderful, natural talent and I encourage him to use it—it's a part of him." He recently participated in the Tulsa Regional Art Exhibit where he entered one of his paintings entitled, "A Lonesome Beach."

"To fully appreciate art one should know a little about the artist and the period in which he painted. One should look for color, shapes, design, line, and rhythm in the painting to analyze it," Calcagno explained.

His workshop is truly an artist studio complete with canvas on easel, paintings on the wall, sketches on the floor, and art in the making. "In my art I'm trying to find a way of saying something really important that will appeal to the ordinary person,

Blevins Attends Bartlett Meeting

Student senate president Ted Blevins was among 33 junior, four year college, and university senate presidents throughout the state that recently met with Gov. Dewey Bartlett in Oklahoma City to discuss the aims and purposes of Gov. Bartlett's newly formed youth council.

Topics discussed at the meeting included lowering the voting age to 18, which is supported by Bartlett, and the students role in economic growth in Oklahoma.

Livestock Judging Team Repeats As Champions

Northeastern A&M livestock judges repeated as champions in the junior college division of the National Western Livestock Exposition recently in Denver. The Miami team won four trophies, 15 ribbons and had first and second place individual judges.

Top individual honors went to seven states competed in the juco division.

Runnerup Murray is coached by Harold Fogleman, a former Northeastern student.

In the university division, Oklahoma State placed third. Three transfers from NEO are members of the five-man OSU team.

They are Tom Siles, Junior Barnes of Miami and Jay and Mike Woodrow.

NORSEMEN BATTLE LIONS

NORSEMEN Guard Larry Brown (Left) out ran Westark's leading scorer Bodie Finkey to grab this loose ball in the Norse's 87-88 victory.

Norsemen Travel To Meet Westark

The Golden Norsemen will go for the sweep of the two games played between them and the Westark Lions of Fort Smith, as they travel to Arkansas to meet the Lions tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m.

Fort Worth Opens NEO Track Season

Northeastern A&M's Golden Harriers will open the track season Saturday, March 1, in the Fort Worth Recreational Meet, at Fort Worth, Texas.

The Harriers will compete in four other meets in March, a Dual with Eastern on NEO's track; March 13, the Coaches Clinic at Grand Lake, March 15, the Featherlite Relays at Ranger, Tex., and the Arkansas Relays at Fayetteville, March 22 and 29 respectively.

In the month of April the Harriers will host three track meets and will be on the road to compete in four meets. April 1, NEO will host a triangular meet with the Harriers competing against Oklahoma Baptist University and John Brown University, Siloam Springs, Ark. April 5 will also find the Norse Harriers at home when they host the Norse relays in which the Pittsburg freshmen, Ark City, Coffeyville, Ft. Scott, Murray, St. Gregory, Bacone, and Eastern will all participate.

April 10 and 12 will find the Harriers on the road as they traveled first to Tishomingo to compete in the Murray Invitational meet and then to Pittsburg, Kans. to take part in the Pittsburg Relays. A Quadrangular meet will be held April 15 at NEO with the Harriers competing against Missouri Southern and Cameron.

The Harriers will be on the road again April 19 when they travel to Lawrence, Kans. to participate in the Kansas Relays. Then on April 26 they will be at Wilburton to compete in the QJCC meet.

Westark was trounced by the Norsemen in an earlier meeting between the two teams at NEO by the score of 87-88. Larry Brown led the Norse onslaught with 22 points, 21 of which came in the first half. John Hoover also added to the Norsemen scoring punch as he dumped in 17 points. Both players saw limited action throughout the second half, as coach Green pressed his reserves into action.

The Norsemen carry a 16-5 record into the game and a 4-3 Bi-State Conference record.

NEO Wins Over Poteau

Mistakes and personal fouls did not hamper the Norsemen's savage pounding of the Poteau Panthers, as NEO mauled Poteau 101-77 on Jan. 27 on the Panthers home court.

The Norsemen showed little mercy as they defeated Poteau for the second time in less than a week. Personal fouls were abundant as the Norse had 29 compared to Poteau's 20. The Norsemen hit 52 per cent of their shots from the field and carried a 55-35 lead into the lockerroom at intermission.

Scoring leaders for the Norse, who had five players in the double-figure column, were Ephraim McDaniel, 22, and Larry Brown with 20. Also scoring 10 or above were Vance Williams with 10, Tom Wolf, 10, and John Hoover, 13. Rebound leaders were McDaniel who pulled in 18 carroms and his teammate Hoover 12.

Leading Panther score was Cole with 17. The loss gave the Panthers a 3-4 record in Bi-State conference play, while the Norse climbed to 4-3 and 15-5 overall.

Baseballers Open Season With Five Home Games

Northeastern A&M's baseballers will begin their season in March with their first five games to be played on the home diamond.

The team will open the season against Central Bible College, March 15 and then take on the St. Gregory Cavaliers the following day. After a three day break the baseballers will meet Crowder college on March 19 and will then play their first double header against Belleville, Ill. on the home diamond, March 21, and 22.

The players will then travel to Oklahoma City to meet Southwestern in a double header there, on March 24 and 25, then back to the home field to finish out the month against Bacone College, March 28 and begin a double header against Centerville, Iowa on March 31 and carry over to April 1. Still at home the team will take on Connors April 4.

They will travel to Westark junior college on April 7, but will be back home April 11 to take on Yankton, S. D.

The club will be on the road for their next five games which will match them against the Cadets of Oklahoma Military Academy on April 12, then Crowder college will host the players on April 15 after a three day rest at home. Central Bible College will then play host to the club April 18 and John Brown University will be on their home diamond against the NEO sluggers, on April 19.

NEO's baseballers will then travel to meet Murray college on April 21, before coming home to meet Eastern junior college on April 25 and John Brown University the following day.

The Bacone team will ten play host to the Miamians before they come back home to compete in the Regional Baseball Tournament May 1, 2, 3, being held on NEO's diamond this year.

The Scoreboard BY MONTY FRANKS

With second semester now underway, the halls of Commons Hall will be hollow from the sounds of sophomores who lived there for three semesters and have moved on to greener pastures.

These sophomores were instrumental in leading the 1967 Golden Norsemen to a junior college championship in Savannah, Ga. Last season, they provided the foundation on which coach Bowman could start his football program.

From the defensive unit, the leading candidates from this years team who have gone are Barty Chappell, Oklahoma State University; Rod LaCourse, Central State College; and Ron Yankowski to Kansas State at Lawrence. Also from the defensive secondary Jeff Hawkins who has gone to Southwestern State at Weatherford.

Offensive stars who are gone include Randy Crow, Oklahoma State University; Stan Bessiey, Tahlequah; Mike Wadzita, Chicago; Rick Festa and Dick Fraska to the University of Tampa; and three of the offensive linemen Mark Mercurio, Tom Fletcher, and Joe Horschel to the University of Cincinnati.

Transferring to a four-year school for football players can be very hard and these boys will need all the well-wishes they could receive.

Speaking of sophomores, Jim Fronapfel was transferred to as an All-American at the queen crowning ceremonies held at Will Rodgers gym in connection with the 26th annual high school basketball tournament last week-end. Well, Jim, I knew you were good but not that good.

Norse Slide Past Cadets

Ephraim McDaniel and Larry Brown provided the fireworks as the Golden Norsemen exploded for a 90-82 victory over the Cadets of Oklahoma Military Academy on Jan. 14 at Claremore.

McDaniel scored eight field goals and 19 free shots for 38 points while Brown hit seven from the field and five from the charity stripe for a total of 19 points.

Tom Lowery led the Cadets with 31 points on 12 field goals and seven free tosses. The Norsemen led at intermission of the Bi-State Conference game by the score of 37-33. They returned from the shower room to rack up 53 points compared to 48 for the home club. The Norsemen had three other players in the double figures column with Tom Wolf scoring 16, Vince Williams 12 and John Hoover scoring 11.

Norse Coast To Triumph Over Lions

Northeastern A&M's Golden Norsemen coasted past the Westark Lions of Fort Smith, 97-59 in a Bi-State conference game, Thursday Jan. 16, in the NEO fieldhouse.

Guard Larry Brown led the Norsemen with 22 points, 21 of which he scored in the first half. Brown and other regulars saw little action in the second half.

Other Norsemen who reached double figures were John Hoover with 17 points and Ephraim McDaniel who tallied 14 points.

The Lions only lead was with 16:39 left in the first half. Ten seconds later the Norsemen had the lead for keeps and lead at halftime 49-31.

Norsemen Win Conference Tilt Over Panthers

The Golden Norsemen bounced to a top-sided 86-62 victory over the Panthers of Poteau Junior College in a Bi-State Conference basketball game Jan. 21 at the new NEO fieldhouse.

The Norsemen were never in trouble and held an 8-0 lead before the Panthers could score. Midway in the first half, with the score standing at 34-14, coach Green loaded his lineup with reserves who also saw most of the action throughout the second half. The score at intermission was 47-24.

Norseman Larry Brown, who saw action little more than half the game, was the leading scorer with 25 points on 11 fielders and three of five from the charity stripe.

Glen Cole led the Panthers with 15 points, 13 of which came in the first half. With four fouls in the first half, Cole saw limited action the second half.

The victory gave the Norsemen a 3-2 record in the Bi-State Conference and a 14-4 overall record. Poteau dropped to three-five in the conference and four-nine in season play.

Norsemen Bow To Mounteers

Overcome by the 24-point onslaught of Ernest Pettis and the cold shooting from the charity line, the Golden Norsemen were upset by the Mountaineers of Eastern A&M, 78-72, before a capacity crowd at Eastern on Jan. 23.

Eastern Scores Win

The Norsemen outscored the Mountaineers, 33 to 28 from the field but froze at the free shot line as Eastern sunk 22 while the Norsemen only hit six. NEO committed 22 fouls to Eastern 12.

Paced By Pettis

Paced by Pettis, Eastern jumped in front 10-2 and commanded the game from that point. Twice in the last half the Norsemen came within three points but failed to close the gap with the last chance coming with six minutes left to play at 63-60. Numerous Norsemen shots were blocked by 6-7 Sibert, the tallest Mountaineer.

Brown Hits 28

Larry Brown and Ephraim McDaniel led Norsemen attack with 20 and 18 points respectfully. The victory gave Eastern a 12-3 record while the Norsemen dropped to 14-5.

Tournament Ends In Final Games On January 25

Northeastern A&M's annual High School Invitational Basketball Tournament brought its action to a close Saturday night, Jan. 25, as the finals were completed in the four gym event.

In Class AAA, Oklahoma City Douglas defeated Tulsa Webster to capture the championship title. In Class AA play, Miami slipped past Pawhuska to capture the trophy. Picher downed Union in order to win honors in the Class A blue division, while Inola soundly defeated Bixby for the Class A gold division tilt. Chouteau received the honors in the Class B with a defeat over Welch, while Liberty Mounds bounced their way to the Class C championship with a win over Glenpool.

In girls action Owasso downed Kansas to capture honors in the Class A blue division and Bixby rolled over Roland to take the winners trophy in the Class A gold division. The Chouteau girls kept with the Chouteau boys as they defeated Welch to win the Class B championship. Big Cabin came through in the last three seconds to capture a win and the trophy from Liberty Mounds.

Trophies were presented to the winners and runners immediately following the last game in each gym.
