Music Festivities Set For March

Northeastern A&M College will host approximately 3,500 junior high and high school musicians from Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma at the annual Music Festival March 4 and 5.

The event will consist of choral competition on Tuesday and instrumental on Wednesday.

Competition in the vocal division will include choruses, ensembles and solos. The instrumental division will include concert bands, dance bands, small ensembles and solos.

Dr. Robert Swanson, NEO band director, stated that entries at the present time are not completed, but so far the farthest Oklahoma entry is from Enid High School.

"Last year out of the 3,200 students who attended the two day event, 2,300 of them were in the instrumental division," Swanson said. "I am expecting more this year."

Judging the instrumental division are Stanley Green and Al Lynd of Oklahoma State University, Stillwater; Russell Wiley, Kenneth Bloomquist and John Boulton, University of Kansas, Lawrence; Howard Liva, Don Joseph and Roger Crosby, Drury College, Springfield, Mo.

Two of the judges in the Choral division are George Smith, director of choral department and Lyva Engelmann, voice instructor at Southeastern State College, Durant.

Kenneth Richards, chairman of Fine Arts division, will be in charge of the choral division and Swanson will direct the instrumental division. Assisting them will be Charles Thomas, Northeastern voice instructor, and college music students.

Previously this season, the Aggies have taken top honors at the National Western Stock Show in Denver, Colo., and the Southwestern Livestock Exposition at Ft. Worth, Tex.

Members of the judging team will compete at Houston are Rocky Maxson, Welch, Kenneth Nickell, Parker, Kans.; Dewey Enlow, Sapulpa; Martin J. Read, La Cynne, Kans.; Don Simmons, Stillwell and David Stevens, Columbus, Kans. Neil Burcham is coach for the judging team.

Take The R-u-t-s Out Of N-E-O

NEO is striving to become one of the most beautiful college campuses in the nation and they are doing a good job. However, beauty cannot be measured by the number of bushes, flowers and fountains, beauty is best measured by harmony and contentment. The Northeastern A&M campus will not be able to attain this harmony until the least beautiful spots on campus are made a part of our "campus beautification". These are the mud holes and canyons they call the student parking lots.

According to Ron Hunt, student senate president, the estimated cost of paving parking facilities is between $43-46,000. Many students have been complaining that the money used on the beautification project should be used instead for the parking lots. Upon investigation it was found that all the money involved in this project has been designated for that purpose and cannot be used for other added attractions.

It would have only been fair to the students if consideration had been given to the growing problem of NEO's 'Grand Canyon' parking lots before the shrub-fountain project got underway. As it stands now, the school does not have the funds to take care of the ruts that have dented mufflers, fenders and minds around campus.

A solution to this problem is now being hashed out, however, results may not appear this year. Senate president Hunt related a plan where the money would be borrowed to pave the lots, where upon each student parking in the lot would be charged about $15 a year or $2 a month for the use of the facilities. A procedure such as this would also bring about more severe parking penalties and another campus patrolman being hired, resulting in better protection for the cars parking in the lots. These would be a few ways to repay the loan. According to Hunt this isn't much to ask since almost every school has a program such as this.

The dirt used to fill these ruts won't last long, most of it is found attached under and around the students cars. Whatever is decided on this pressing situation, it should be decided quick . . . before the next rain.

Viet Nam War Insurance Policy

Freedom! Independence! Liberation! These age long torches have been handed down from generation to generation. It is up to us the living, to preserve these freedoms that our forefathers so nobly gave their lives for. It is for this, our own security—an insurance policy which will in dividend redeem us our future freedom from enslavement, that we should be in Viet Nam.

It can't be morally wrong for us to be over there. How can it be when we help treat and cure diseases that infect a majority of the Vietnamese children. Is it wrong to try and keep a people from enslavement? That's what Communists, V.C., really offer the Vietnamese people.

If you were to go there, your heart couldn't help but be touched by the children. Many are sick from disease or lost in a war they know nothing about. I shudder to think of my children existing in a Communist world after seeing what Communism has already done to those people in Nam. It seems only right, humane to give the Vietnamese a chance to enjoy freedom from oppression.

What Viet Nam really is, is simply a war of containment. War is war and men are going to kill one another. They have been doing it since Cain and Able. Which is worse, killing a man physically or ripping him apart mentally by controlling him as a Communist puppet. When it comes to dying in a war, the Vietnamese war is just as justifiable as any. I would rather die there than to live under Communism here.

More Americans with a concern for humans are needed in countries like Viet Nam, not federal money. If this were so then we might avoid frictional break outs in other foreign countries.

Those young men who burn their draft cards to protest and avoid Viet Nam, a large percent of them are just plain scared. Men in Viet Nam are scared, yet they didn't burn their draft cards.

I love my country and its ideals and goals. Communists in Viet Nam or anywhere threaten my way of living. I will, have and would fight for it anywhere. Without my country and the principles for which she stands, I am insignificant.

Isley Attends Texas Meet

Lloyd Isley, Coweta sophomore, recently attended a meeting of the Southwest Region of the Office of Economic Opportunity in Austin, Tex.

During the three day event, Isley was selected as chairman by members of the Southwest Region and was responsible for conducting meetings and planning the agenda. He represented the Waggoner County Development Foundation, which sponsored the Tenkiller Recreation Camp for underprivileged youth this past summer where Isley was a youth counselor.

Isley stated that the meeting was attended by over 200 high school and college students from five southwestern states. The conference program dealt with summer employment.

The Southwest Region consists of Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Texas and Louisiana.

Aggies Select New Leaders For Society

NEO's Aggie Society held its monthly meeting recently and elected new officers for the second semester.

New officers are Gerald Eggerman, president; Don Simmons, vice president; Carol Eller, secretary; Richard Cook, student senate representative and Kenneth Nickell song leader.

Dates were also announced for the second annual Aggie sponsored rodeo to be held April 19 and 20. The event will be held at Columbus, Kans.

The rodeo will be open to any college or high school student in the United States. Many of the nations top cowboys and cowgirls of this age are expected to enter in the event.

Plans were also discussed to have a dance following the Saturday night rodeo performance.

Diana Long, Bartlesville, was omitted from the Dean's Honor Roll published in the previous issue of the Norse Wind.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rules Produce Unrest Not Peace And Order

Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College appears to be operated on a compulsory rather than a non obligatory basis. Students are required to pay for the school linen service, live in the campus housing, and eat in the Bruce G. Carter Student Union Cafeteria. However, according to the college catalogue, "The principles that undergird the philosophy of Northeastern Oklahoma A&M College include the idea of maturity on the part of the student." Handicapped with the forementioned rules the student rarely has the opportunity to exercise any maturity in handling his own affairs. The dormitory rules are among the most backward in the state and the hours for women as compared to other state institutions are absurd. Rules tend to stir unrest and dissatisfaction instead of producing peace and order. A line from an unknown poem seems to sum up the situation on this campus.

The parched quenced lips of souls
Satisfy their needs on the soles of foots.

David Elder and Jim Gregg

Manners Need Overhauling

Some students at NEO show a definite lack of manners as well as a huge capacity for stupidity when they refer to foreign students as "camel jocks". It is almost impossible to go through a week of school without hearing this debasement of human character at least once.

All that is needed to correct this situation is a little concern aided by some improved manners. It can only be held against ones character and his school if this is allowed to continue unchecked.

These foreign students will eventually carry back an image of America to their countries, let's try not to make it an ugly one.

John S. Gentry

Cowboy's Dream To Become Reality

NEO's rodeo club was once a dream but this dream will soon become a reality. In the Feb. 14 issue of the Norse Wind a letter to the editor raised the question as to why NEO did not have such a club. At this time we are working hard to get the club underway.

Dr. Bruce G. Carter said, "Until the letter appeared in the paper no one had bothered to bring the matter to my attention." He went on to say, "I have been wondering for years why NEO didn't have a club. I believe such a club will succeed."

Neil Burcham, instructor of agriculture and coach of the livestock judging team, has agreed to be club sponsor.

Rodeo is ushering in a new breed of cowboy. Like his predecessor, chances are good that he broke into the sport at one of 87 colleges which offer rodeo scholarships and field twilight rodeo teams. Now NEO can be proud to say they are playing a part in rodeo history.

"Sing Out Miami"

Approximately Feb. 1, Up With People, a dynamic philosophy hailed around the nation and world, came to our campus representing the aspirations of the new generation. Touching a universal human cord, with an explosive spirit they communicated a love of God and offered a key to building a humane society. With this force of ideas we were shaken from our apathy and indifference; tears glistened as we applauded with enthusiasm and concern from every fiber of our being. Here was our goal—a chance to fight for the right and humanity, and we knew from our depth this was the beginning of a magnificent hope, a new faith.

Would you like to keep the Up With People spirit in our community by working with a local Sing Our Miami group? If so please leave your name, address and telephone number in Bill Bennett's office.

Student Voices Opinion On Religious Freedom

The purpose for Religious Emphasis Week is to make students more aware of the role religion plays in their lives. Religion is a choice individuals must make for themselves. And like anything else in life, it is what they want to make of it. If he considers it a waste of time then for his own peace of mind he should find something more meaningful. But in order to understand life itself one must realize the need for a religion, and make it a guideline for a good and happy life.

We live in a free nation, Democracy is a system of government in which each man is free to serve or to acknowledge the authority of God, according to his own conscience. How can a person contradict democratic principle by following the religion dictates of his own conscience?

Fifty Five Manpower Students Enrolled Here

Currently attending Northeastern A&M on the government sponsored Manpower Development and Training Act are 37 men and 18 women, according to Joe Ables, chairman of the Vocational Technical division.

The purpose of the manpower program is to train individuals so they can qualify to hold well paying jobs in industry and business, and at the same time help management to fill the demand for skilled labor brought on by the never ending expansion of free enterprise.

Northeastern A&M was the first college west of the Mississippi to offer the program when it began in 1962. At that time most of the students were from this locality and commuted to school. Today most students come from other areas in the state and are residing in college housing facilities.

Manpower courses include stenography, machine shop, and welding. Classes meet five days a week from eight to five.

Courses offered under the stenography curriculum are: office relations, typing, shorthand, related and remedial instruction and vocabulary skills. This program has 30 students enrolled and runs for 30 weeks.

In conjunction with the machine shop courses offered are: machine shop practice, theory, math, industrial safety and blueprint reading. The duration of the course is 26 weeks and 17 students are now enrolled.

Welding offers shop math, blue print, safety, welding shop, and welding theory. Enrollment is now 18 students and the course extends for 20 weeks.

Throughout the courses, prospective employers are given the chance to interview trainees for placement positions upon completion.

Ables is coordinator for the manpower program and has served as state chairman of the program for the past two years.

Debate Team Reaches Top At Contest

Northeastern Oklahoma A&M's debate team placed in the top eight of 45 and four year college debate teams, Saturday, Feb. 15 at Oklahoma State University, Stillwater, according to Bob White, debate team coach and NEO speech instructor.

Debaters, Chris Taylor and Betsy Stone reached the quarter finals in debate competition.

Taylor also placed second in the extemporaneous competition. Extemporaneous competition allows the competitor to draw three topics. The competitor then chooses one of these topics and is allowed 30 minutes to prepare a speech. Topics are chosen from a variety of current issues.

Debate team members Stone, Taylor, and Dan Eischen traveled to the OSU campus accompanied by coach White.

Student President Hunt Seeks To Unite Campus

By Carol Colclasure

A friendly smile accompanied by a glow of warmth and enthusiasm unite to create Northeastern A&M's Student Senate president, Ron Hunt.

Recently elected to the highest student office on campus, Hunt had this to say about his new position. "I feel like there is a lot of work to be done. Right now we have a plan in the making to improve the bad condition of the parking lots. The solution at hand is to charge $15 a year for those who use the parking lots. This could be added into the room and board. The money would go into paving the lots and general upkeep. We also plan to continue the study of a radio station, the library being open on Sundays, and more activities during the week and on weekends.

A sophomore from Tulsa Ed. son, Hunt is majoring in accounting and plans to attend the University of Texas in Arlington upon graduation from Northeastern.

In his busy day to day schedule Hunt still finds time for his stamp collection and keeping up with politics. His interest in politics followed through as he helped with Bellmon's campaign and reigns as president of the Young Republicans here on campus. "I also enjoy people, football, baseball, and swimming," he added.

Hunt works as a lifeguard at NEO's new inside swimming pool.

With all his activities Hunt hasn't left out romance. He's to be married to Miss Sandy Haily of Miami. Sandy works in the Registrar office here at NEO.

A young man of high ideals and a willingness to serve the student body is Ron Hunt, your Student Senate president.

Movie Industries Unveil New Films For 1969 First Quarter Preview

Warner Bros.—Seven Arts, which set the motion picture pace in the second half of 1968 with "Rachel, Rachel," "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," "Petulia" and "Bullitt," is unveiling another group of trail-blazing films in the first quarter of the new year. They include Ray Bradbury's "The Illustrated Man" and Chekhov's "The Sea Gull," as well as "The Sergeant" and "The Big Bounce."

FILM CONTENDERS

The 1968 Warner Bros.—Seven Arts films are all Academy Award contenders. Leading the group is "Rachel, Rachel," the first film to be directed by Paul Newman. Both Newman and his wife, Joanne Woodward, who starred in the title role, won best-of-the-year awards from the New York Film Critics: best director and best actress, respectively. The same influential critics organization bestowed its best-actor award on Alan Arkin for his starring performance in "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," the film version of the Carson McCullers novel.

10 BEST SELECTORS

Throughout the country, many 10-best selectors have chosen "Petulia" and "Bullitt" as well as "Rachel" and "Lonely Hunter." "Petulia," which starred Julie Christie and George C. Scott, won new acclaim for director Richard Lester, while "Bullitt," starring Steve McQueen as a San Francisco police detective, likewise brought applause to director Peter Yates. Coincidentally, both

"Petulia" and "Bullitt" were filmed on location in San Francisco and made considerable use of the Bay City's memorable back-grounds.

In the new year, Warner Bros.—Seven Arts is breaking futher ground. For the first time, Anton Chekhov's unforgettable drama of pre-revolutionary Russia, "The Sea Gull," has been brought to the screen, with Sidney Lumet producing and directing from Moura Budberg's new translation. Starring in the film are James Mason as Trigorin; Vanessa Redgrave as Nina, the girl whose life he destroys; Simone Signoret as the aging actress, and David Warner, as her son. Others in the cast include Harry Andrews, Eileen Herlie, Denholm Elliott and Kathleen Widdoes.

STEIGER WINS

Rod Steiger, winner of last year's best-actor Academy Award for "In the Heat of the Night," stars in the title roles of two new Warner Bros.—Seven Arts films that are poles apart in theme, mood and style.

In "The Sergeant," a Robert Wise Production directed by John Flynn on location in France, Steiger portrays a U. S. Army veteran whose tough exterior encases a troubled psyche. Co-starring with him are John Phillips Law, as a handsome young soldier, and Ludmila Mikael, as the French girl who comes between the two servicemen.

In "The Illustrated Man," Steiger portrays the Bradbury-created character whose tattoos foretell his future. Claire Bloom (Mrs. Steiger) stars opposite her husband in the drama, which Jack Smight directed for producers Ted Mann and Howard B. Kreitsek.

Another married couple, Ryan O'Neal and Leigh Taylor-Young, who qualify for membership in any "Beautiful People Club," star in a contemporary drama of the young generation, titled "The Big Bounce." Van Heflin, James Daly and Lee Grant play other starring roles in the film, which Alex March directed for producer William Dozier's Greenway Productions.

The Scoreboard

BY MONTY FRANKS

Coach Cletus Green has the enviable position of being head basketball mentor to one of the finest freshman dominated teams in the nation.

The past five seasons at NEO have been real rewarding to coach Green but none have been more rewarding than the season that is now underway. His first season at NEO was his worst but a 13-15 record is not bad for a rookie coach. The next year, coach Green pulled his team to a 17-12 record. In 1966-67 basketball campaign the Norsemen reigned as conference co-champs with an improved 19-12 record. Last season the juno conference split and the Norsemen tied for the division championship with a 24-9 record.

This marked improvement over the past five years is prevalent in the fact that with four and sometimes five freshmen starters, the Norsemen have compiled a season record of 2-6 and a 7-2 league-leading conference record. Another milestone for the record-setting Norse roundballers is the fact that their victory over Hutchinson, Kan. this season was the first time in the history of this school that we had defeated the Kansassans.

Coach Green and the Norsemen are doing a marvelous job and they deserve our support as fans in the up-coming regional tournament play in Tulsa.

Looking around at the progress of the spring sports, it seems as though coach Maxwell might well have that team to take to the nationals this year. Since I've been at NEO all coach Maxwell has dreamed about was taking his baseball team to the nationals and winning them. Well, for his sake this year I hope his dream comes true. Keep swinging coach.

The cindermen of coach Don Rominger's seem to be getting in top shape for their season opener. With this rainy weather they may need water-wings instead of track shoes to prepare for the starting gun.

The lettermen's club has been involved in initiations this week for its sophomore members and it appears that if the sophomores have to go through as much ceremony as they have had to, then the freshmen are in for an enormous surprise.

I would like to apologize to my two readers (me and my mom) for not having a column in the last issue of the Norse Wind. The flu bug snuck-upon me and socked-it-to-me and I was unable to send my wit across the campus of NEO.

Fort Worth Relays Host Norse Team

Northeastern A&M's track team will depart today for Ft. Worth, Texas to compete in the junior college-freshman division of the Southwest Recreation Meet, Saturday, Mar. 1. Competition will also be held on university, college and high school levels.

The forty-sixth annual meet is sponsored jointly by the Ft. Worth Parks and Recreation Board, Texas Christian and Texas Wesleyan Universities. The meet has produced such greats as olympic great Bobby Morrey and one time world pole vault record holder John Pennel.

NEO's thinciad competitors are: in the 120 hurdles: Sam Thornton and Dolan Street, who will also compete in the 400 intermediate hurdles and the pole vault. Mel Riggins, Charleston West Virginia, and Larry Harris of Ft. Worth will be strong contenders in the 100 and 200 yard dashes. Mike Simmons and Jon Harrison will represent the thinciaids in the 400 yard dash, while Roger Millsbaugh and Tom Lloyd will battle in the mile and 800 runs.

Mel Riggins, Larry Harris, Jon Harrison, and Brian Hobart will compete in the 400 relay, while Hobart, Simmons, Harrison and either Lloyd, Millsbaugh or Harris will hold down team competition in the mile relay. Dancy Kaste will do the pole vaulting for the team and Hobart will do the broad jumping. Paul Adams and Ken Hogan will pitch the shot putt and Hogan will also hurl the discus. ## Intramural Highlights

by Robert Campbell

NEO's intramurals kicked into full swing last week with the beginning of second semester basketball.

Girls teams that are participating in the intramurals are: "The Trippers", BSU Starlets, "Raiders," "Manpower Babes", "Roadrunners", Truelove's Lonely Hearts, the Indian Club and the Rusty Rims. There will be ten games and two losses will disqualify a team. Their will be a winners and consolation bracket with a champion in each bracket.

The boys had 19 teams enter the contest so two league were set up with a championship in each bracket. The teams were divided into the Blue and Gold leagues with 15 games scheduled in each league.

Leading teams in the Blue league are: Maxwell's Marauders and the Soul Brothers Inc, each supporting a 3-0 record; in second place only a game behind the leaders are the Super Sonic Souls with a 3-1 record. The Untouchables are holding down third place with a 2-1 record, while the Bombers and the Fairland Warriors battle for fourth place, both supporting a 2-2 record. Fifth place is held by The Flat Feet with a 1-3 mark, while BSU takes sixth with a record of 0-1. The Peace-Makers are settled peacefully into last place supporting a 0-4 record.

The fight for first place is much closer in the Gold league. The Lancers hold first with a 4-0 mark but can't falter because the Playboys are only one game out at 3-0, while the Faculty holds a firm 2-0 record. The next slot down the line is filled by the Suns at 2-2, while the next position is in a tie between the Knights and the Globetrotters both with records of 1-2. Hogan's Heroes and the A.I. D.D. are both struggling to stay out of last place with three losses and no wins apiece.

Regulations were drawn up in a meeting of the intramural managers. The rules are as follows: No game will be started later than ten minutes after scheduled time. Each game will consist of four quarters, each six minutes long. There will be a one minute rest period following each quarter and a five minute period at half-time.

The clock runs regulation in the first quarter but is stopped for nothing in the last three quarters except time-outs. Substitutes must check in with the time keeper and can only enter the game when the ball is dead. Each player will be allowed five fouls and a team will be allowed five time-outs.

Norseman Ephraim McDaniel shows some of his shooting and jumping skills as he goes high to put in a pair for the Norse. Ephraim set a new rebound record at NEO through 31 ball games.

"Big Ephraim" Sets Norse Rebound Mark

By Monty Franks

Going high for the Golden Norsemen basketball team this season is 6-5, 200 lb. Ephraim McDaniel, who as a freshman has already established a new rebound record at NEO by grabbing 401 carroms in 31 ball games.

Ephraim grabbed the record from Ron Young who led last years Norsemen with 343 through 33 games. McDaniel has an outside chance to break another record at NEO for total points in one season. The old record set by Dave Lofton last season with 700 points, is within Ephraim's grasp as he amassed 611 points with two regular season games remaining.

Hailing from Charlotte, N.C., Ephraim started playing basketball at the age of 12. Attending high school at West Charlotte High, he was honored by being chosen to the All-City basketball team two years in succession. He was also named to the All Macklenburz team, which is a county honor, two years in a row. Ephraim led his high school team to a berth in the state playoffs three years in a row. Two of those three years he was his team's leading scorer and rebounder. His sophomore year the team won their division in the state playoffs.

Coming straight from high school Ephraim feels "that junior college ball is alot tougher than high school because of the higher grade of competition." Working at the center position, he has compiled a 53 percent from the field and 68 percent from the charity stripe. Commenting on the team's ability to play as a team, Ephraim said, "If we play like a team, I feel that we can take the regionals and go on to the nationals with no sweat." He also stated that "we have a lot of potential and when we work together as a team, I don't feel like anyone can beat us."

Ephraim feels that coach Green has been his big inspiration during the current season. "When I make a mistake, coach is always yelling at me and helping me cut down on my mistakes," was his reply when asked why he felt coach Green had given him so much aid.

Majoring in sociology, after completion of junior college competition, Ephraim plans to return to North Texas State at Derton where he was recruited from. Coach Green commented that, "I think that Ephraim is just an outstanding, unselfish ball player." When asked if he felt that Ephraim has improved, coach Green replied, "his ball control above all has come around, although he has improved in all categories."

Ephraim McDaniel is the caliber of ball player NEO needs to become national champions in basketball. He represents the attitude and the aggressiveness which is needed for a team to become champions.

Spring is just around the corner and with its arrival comes the national pastime of baseball. Northeastern A&M's Golden Norsemen baseball team poses before starting the 1960 season.
